Rioting Continues Despite the Concentration of 2,000 Policemen in City's Center.

CAR WINDOWS SMASHED
Showers of Bottles and Brick Thrown and Several Passengers Are Injured.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Seventy-five business men organized as a committee tried to persuade labor leaders Thursday to refrain from declaring a general strike in sympathy with the street railway employees, of whom it is asserted there are 11,000 on strike. This is the last day of grace given by the labor unions to the mayor and volunteer mediators to settle the dispute with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Railways Company.

Rioting continues despite the fact that 2,000 policemen were concentrated in the center of the city Wednesday night to protect elevated crosstown surface lines. Strike sympathizers bombarded cars with missiles. In one case several hundred strikers attacked a car and were beaten off only after a battle with the police.

Repeatedly during the early hours Thursday Sixth and Seventh avenue elevated trains were assailed by strike sympathizers on roof tops. Twenty-two such attacks were reported by the police in a few hours.

Car windows were smashed under showers of bricks and bottles and several passengers were injured.

EL PASO, Sept. 21.—National guardsmen and regulars—26,000 of them in dust-stained khaki—sawing through the streets of El Paso and passed a reviewing stand at Fort Bliss Thursday in the first parade and review of an infantry division at full war strength ever held in the United States. Tanned by service on the border the brown-clad legions of cavalry, infantry, field artillery and auxiliary troops marched in an unbroken column nearly twenty miles long. Major General Charles M. Clement, commanding the Pennsylvania division, and Brigadier General George Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, reviewed them.

Participating in the review were troops from the regular army, from Massachusetts, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and New Mexico, in all 798 officers and 25,341 men. HUGHES GIVES AN OUTLINE OF HIS POLICIES

Wants to See a Great Driving Force of Patriotic Sentiment in America.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 21.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing his second audience of the day in the open air here Thursday outlined the policies for which he stands and declared he wanted to see in the United States "a great driving force of patriotic sentiment" which would furnish the motive power for progress.

"I want American rights protected throughout the country," Mr. Hughes said. "I desire to see a great driving force of patriotic sentiment which will give us the motive power of progress. We cannot have progress unless we have that loyalty and love for our country which will enable us to get an steam to supply energy."

Mr. Hughes went into detail concerning his tariff views.

"The protective tariff," he said, "would have to be applied to enable America to meet European competition after the war."

"If it is not," he said, "we will not only have a repetition of the period of unemployment that we had just before the European war, but we will have agitation and confusion and disaster in this country. I see unbounded trouble ahead in disappointments and blighted prospects of labor if this is not done. I see only disturbance and disaster unless we take this matter in hand in time."

HUNTINGTON, Sept. 21.—In district court Thursday the demurrer to the indictment against General Edward O'Toole, of Governor Hatfield's staff, and nineteen others for conspiracy in the June primary election in McDowell county was sustained.

The decision announced in a written opinion by Judge Charles A. Wood, of the United States circuit court of appeals, holds that the federal government has never undertaken to exercise control over the methods of selection of candidates for nomination by political parties and that the right to be a candidate does not arise under the federal constitution or laws. The decision means the case will not come to trial unless an appeal is taken to the federal appellate court.

Sincerity of Reception Disproves Opponents' Prophecy of Cold Middle West.

HE TALKS BEFORE 50,000
Crowds Are Turned Away as Audiences Fill Halls to Overflowing.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 21.—Wisconsin would scarcely have welcomed Charles Evans Hughes more graciously if he had come from the state to give away specie instead of speeches.

From the moment he gripped the attention of 7,000 persons in an outdoor meeting at Sheboygan, until he swung his arms in delight at the final cheers of 10,000 in the auditorium here at night, it was evident to any fair-minded observer that Wisconsin is going to do its bit in putting him in the White House.

50,000 Hear Speeches.
It was not one meeting or two or three that contributed to this feeling, an impression as palpable and definite as a warm breeze. It was seven meetings that gathered 50,000 persons within the sweep of Mr. Hughes's voice and the appeal of his personality, revealed their eagerness for his ideas of government and progress and national courage and drew them to him for the personal contact of handshake and earnest good wishes.

His experience in Wisconsin when he spoke at Sheboygan, Manitowish, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Milwaukee, following his fine reception in Illinois, has convinced his political advisers and associates that the talk of the middle West being cold to Hughes is nonsense and that the truth is the whole section is swinging strongly to his support.

It was not so much the size of the crowds that heard him although they were impressively big, or the character of the applause, although the cheering was frequent and heavy that developed assurance of middle West friendliness. It was the general attitude and spirit of the people, their obvious and expressed satisfaction with the man's words and personality. It was the complimentary things they were heard to say quietly to each other that made it apparent Mr. Hughes has scored heavily.

Puts on High Speed.
The candidate's own attitude, together with the fine organization of the second western trip, has played a big part in the business of reaching, convincing and holding the people. Charles Evans Hughes is now on high speed with the muffler cut out and you can hear him coming for miles away. He is brimful of confidence. He goes at his crowds like a man that knows he is bound to win. He talks straight from the shoulder.

There is fire in his eye and a swing to his fist. He knows how to make a joke and how to take one. He has the knack of making people laugh with him. He can make them frown

Delegates and officers of the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of West Virginia were busily engaged in secret sessions of their sixteenth biennial convention Thursday in the assembly hall of the Waldo hotel. The convention is scheduled to end late in the afternoon with the election of officers to serve the next two years and the selection of the place for the 1918 convention. All of the business engaging the attention of the grand lodge Thursday was said to be of a routine and miscellaneous nature with nothing of especial importance for the general public.

Reports of officers thus far submitted show a total membership in the state of 5,600, the payment of $1,236,590 in death benefits since the organization of the West Virginia grand lodge and the investment of $310,000 of its funds in county and municipal bonds of West Virginia. It is the custom of the order to make all its investments within the state. During the last fifteen years $17,000 has been paid in death benefits in Clarksburg.

Ten candidates were initiated at a session of the grand lodge held Wednesday night, the work being
